Hannah is a skilled trial lawyer who has successfully represented clients in both state and federal courts. Her practice focuses primarily on insurance defense matters, and she has considerable experience handling personal injury disputes arising out of trucking accidents, construction and oil field accidents, and premises defects.

Hannah is a proud graduate of Baylor University and St. Mary's University School of Law. While at Baylor, Hannah was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and a senior ambassador for the Phi Alpha Honor Society. During law school, Hannah was an oral advocate for the St. Mary's EAP Moot Court team and reached the quarterfinals at both the Mack Kidd Administrative Law Moot Court Competition and the J. Braxton Craven, Jr. Memorial Moot Court Competition. She was also an associate editor for The Scholar: St. Mary's Law Review on Race and Social Justice, president of the Baylor Bar Association, and a member of the State Bar of Texas Pro Bono College.
